Reflecting on Marley: Textual Evidence

ACTIVITY 2.17

Learning Targets
- Identify and interpret textual evidence.
- Write a response to a prompt, using textual evidence to support a thesis.
- Integrate ideas from multiple texts to build knowledge and vocabulary about the roles dogs play in the lives of humans.

Setting a Purpose for Reading
- As you read, mark the text by underlining words, phrases, and sentences that tell why Grogan loved his dog.
- Circle unknown words and phrases. Try to determine the meaning of the words by using context clues, word parts, or a dictionary.

Introducing the Strategy: Diffusing
With this strategy, you use context clues to help find the meaning of unknown words. When diffusing, underline words that are unfamiliar. Think of two possible substitutions (synonyms) and confirm your definition. You can confirm your definition by checking reference sources such as a dictionary or a thesaurus.

About the Author
John Grogan (1957–) is a newspaper columnist and the author of the best-selling memoir Marley and Me, a book based on the ideas in the article you are about to read. Marley and Me has been adapted into a young reader’s edition, several children’s books, and a major motion picture. Grogan says that he began writing in school because he “was so bad at everything else.” In addition to Marley and Me, he has written articles for numerous magazines and newspapers.

College and Career Readiness Standards
Focus Standards:
RL.6.1 Cite textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text.
RL.6.3 Describe how a particular story’s or drama’s plot unfolds in a series of episodes as well as how the characters respond or change as the plot moves toward a resolution.

Additional Standard Addressed:
L.6.4c, L.6.6

PLAN
Materials: highlighters
Suggested Pacing: 1 50-minute class period

TEACH
Read the Learning Targets and Preview with students.
Have students set a purpose for reading and read the About the Author paragraph. Prompt them to consider how the author’s background as a journalist may have spurred him to write this text.
Memoir

Saying Farewell to a Faithful Pal

by John Grogan

In the gray of dawn, I found the shovel in the garage and walked down the hill to where the lawn meets the woods. There, beneath a wild cherry tree, I began to dig.

The earth was loose and blessedly unfrozen, and the work went fast. It was odd being out in the backyard without Marley, the Labrador retriever who for 13 years made it his business to be tight by my side for every excursion out the door, whether to pick a tomato, pull a weed, or fetch the mail. And now here I was alone, digging him this hole.

“There will never be another dog like Marley,” my father said when I told him the news, that I finally had to put the old guy down. It was as close to a compliment as our pet ever received.

No one ever called him a great dog—or even a good dog. He was as wild as a banshee and as strong as a bull. He crashed joyously through life with a gusto most often associated with natural disasters.

He’s the only dog I’ve ever known to get expelled from obedience school.

Marley was a chewer of couches, a slasher of screens, a slinger of drool, a tipper of trash cans. He was so big he could eat off the kitchen table with all four paws planted on the floor—and did so whenever we weren’t looking.

Marley shredded more mattresses and dug through more drywall than I care to remember, almost always out of sheer terror brought on by his mortal enemy, thunder.

Cute but Dumb

He was a majestic animal, nearly 100 pounds of quivering muscle wrapped in a luxurious fur coat the color of straw. As for brains, let me just say he chased his tail till the day he died, apparently convinced he was on the verge of a major canine breakthrough.

That tail could clear a coffee table in one swipe. We lost track of the things he swallowed, including my wife’s gold necklace, which we eventually recovered, shinier than ever. We took him with us once to a chi-chi outdoor café and tied him to the heavy wrought-iron table. Big mistake. Marley spotted a cute poodle and off he bounded, table in tow.

But his heart was pure.

My Notes

bounded: leaped or jumped with great energy

3. Address the Knowledge Question. Have students work in small groups to discuss the roles dogs play in the lives of humans.

4. FIRST READ: Conduct the first read of the passage as a read aloud. When you reach the term “obedience school” in paragraph 5, model using the diffusing strategy to help you understand the meaning of this term.
Guide students to underline parts of the paragraph and other surrounding text that help them understand why the author wants Marley to become more obedient.

Knowledge Question:

What roles do dogs play in the lives of humans?

Across Activities 2.17 and 2.18, you will read three texts about the ways dogs assist people with day-to-day tasks. While you read and build knowledge about the topic, think about your answer to the Knowledge Question.

1. How do the first two sentences of the memoir contribute to the text? What is the effect of these sentences on the reader? What time of day is it? What is the author doing? How do these details affect you? RL.6.5

2. How does the author structure positive and negative details to show how Marley was both challenging and good for his family? List specific details and explain how their order in the story affects the reader’s opinion. Look at each paragraph in the text in order, starting with paragraph 3. Place a mark beside each paragraph that shows a negative detail about Marley. Place a different mark beside each paragraph that shows a positive detail. Which type of paragraph is more common? Are the details grouped in a particular way? Why might the author have done this? RL.6.5, RL.6.6
2.17

When I brought my wife home from the doctor after our first pregnancy ended in a miscarriage, that wild beast gently rested his blocky head in her lap and just whimpered. And when babies finally arrived, he somehow understood they were something special and let them climb all over him, tugging his ears and pulling out little fistfuls of fur. One day when a stranger tried to hold one of the children, our jolly giant showed a ferocity we never imagined was inside him.

As the years passed, Marley mellowed, and sleeping became his favorite pastime. By the end, his hearing was shot, his teeth were gone, his hips so riddled with arthritis he barely could stand. Despite the infirmities, he greeted each day with the mischievous glee that was his hallmark. Just days before his death, I caught him with his head stuck in the garbage pail.

Life Lessons Learned

A person can learn a lot from a dog, even a loopy one like ours.

Marley taught me about living each day with unbridled exuberance and joy, about seizing the moment and following your heart. He taught me to appreciate the simple things—a walk in the woods, a fresh snowfall, a nap in a shaft of winter sunlight. And as he grew old and achy, he taught me about optimism in the face of adversity.

Mostly, he taught me about friendship and selflessness and, above all else, unwavering loyalty.

When his time came last week, I knelt beside him on the floor of the animal hospital, rubbing his gray snout as the veterinarian discussed cremation with me. No, I told her, I would be taking him home with me.

The next morning, our family would stand over the hole I had dug and say goodbye. The kids would tuck drawings in beside him. My wife would speak for us all when she’d say: “God, I’m going to miss that big, dumb lug.”

But now I had a few minutes with him before the doctor returned. I thought back over his 13 years—the destroyed furniture and goofy antics; the sloppy kisses and utter devotion. All in all, not a bad run.

I didn’t want him to leave this world believing all his bad press. I rested my forehead against his and said: “Marley, you are a great dog.”

Despite: in spite of optimism: seeing the positive in all things lug: an awkward, clumsy fellow devotion: dedication

My Notes

Knowledge Quest

• What emotions did you feel while reading the memoir?
• What details about Marley stand out to you?

Scaffolding the Text-Dependent Questions

3. In paragraph 8, the author describes a time when Marley thought he was “on the verge of a major canine breakthrough.” What does canine mean? Use a dictionary to find out. Then give some examples of canine qualities Marley possessed that made him a good companion to his owner. What do you know about canine behavior? How is Marley like other animals in the canine family? L.6.4c, L.6.6
Returning to the Text

- Return to the text as you respond to the following questions. Use text evidence to support your responses.
- Write any additional questions you have about the memoir in your Reader/Writer Notebook.

1. How do the first two sentences of the memoir contribute to the text? What is the effect of these sentences on the reader?
   - The first two sentences explain the setting, which sets the tone for the memoir. The tone seems dark because the author is digging in the gray of dawn. The sentences also make the reader wonder why the author is digging and what will happen next.

2. How does the author structure positive and negative details to show how Marley was both challenging and good for his family? List specific details and explain how their order in the story affects the reader's opinion.
   - The author implies that Marley didn’t get many compliments. Paragraphs 4–9 tell how wild Marley was, including the detail about him destroying things. Paragraphs 10 and 11 show that Marley was also loyal and joyful. The author put the positive details after the negative ones to make the point that Marley’s negative traits were worth it because of the positive traits.

3. In paragraph 8, the author describes a time when Marley thought he was “on the verge of a major canine breakthrough.” What does canine mean? Use a dictionary to find out. Then give some examples of canine qualities Marley possessed that made him a good companion to his owner.
   - The word canine means “belonging to the family Canidae, or the family of dogs, wolves, jackals, and foxes.” Canine qualities that made Marley a good companion to his owner include his pure heart, protectiveness, exuberance, and loyalty.

4. What was the author’s purpose for writing the memoir? How is the author’s purpose conveyed in the text?
   - The author wrote the memoir as a tribute to his dog Marley. The author gives details about how Marley was actually a good dog even though he was clumsy and destructive.

5. What are things the text shows that people can learn from dogs? What does the author learn from Marley? What are some words the author uses to describe Marley’s values and approach to life and friendship? What personality traits did Marley show through the way he behaved with the author and his family?
   - RL.6.3
   - RL.6.1

Scaffolding the Text-Dependent Questions

4. What was the author’s purpose for writing the memoir? How is the author’s purpose conveyed in the text? Notice that Grogan starts the memoir with the burial of Marley and then tells stories about Marley’s long life. What are his final words to Marley? RL.6.3

5. What are things the text shows that people can learn from dogs? What does the author learn from Marley? What are some words the author uses to describe Marley’s values and approach to life and friendship? What personality traits did Marley show through the way he behaved with the author and his family? RL.6.1
5. Q: What are things the text shows that people can learn from dogs? What does the author learn from Marley?

The text shows how people can learn from dogs to seize the moment, follow their heart, and appreciate the simple things. Also, the author learns these specific things from Marley: friendship, selflessness, and loyalty.

6. Find sentences from the story that show why Grogan loved his dog. Copy them into the Textual Evidence column of the following graphic organizer along with your thoughts on what these sentences tell about Grogan’s feelings. Then use the notes in your graphic organizer to help you write a summary of the story that is logically organized, clear, and true to the meaning of the story.

Read and Discuss

How is the value of human and animal interaction demonstrated in the book you are reading on your own? Are the themes present in your independent reading similar to those present in “Saying Farewell to a Faithful Pal”? With a small group, discuss various animal-related themes found in your independent reading. Compare and contrast these themes with the story you have just read.

Writing to Sources: Informational Text

Why do people keep pets? Using John Grogan and Marley as examples, explain what human beings love about and learn from their pets. Be sure to:

- Write a thesis statement including the topic and your opinion.
- Use textual evidence and supporting details from the newspaper column.
- Add personal commentary while maintaining a formal style. Use the replacing strategy to make your vocabulary academic.

The following standards are addressed in the writing prompt:

- W.6.1a, W.6.2a
- W.6.1b, W.6.2b
- W.6.1d, W.6.2d
